

BANANA BEACH PARTY

When you cross a Master's degree in Oceanography with a career in children's music, you get a beach party!

Award-winning children's musician Shana Banana merges her two specialties in creating a fun, music-based show about our aquatic and marine water systems and the animals that live there. Using puppets, audience interaction and original songs, her program emphasizes the interconnectedness between ourselves, the earth's water resources and the animals that live there. Includes some Native American (Seminole) references and stories.
