

STANDARD INTRODUCTION

“Stripped and Teased” or “Becoming the Subject of Your Own Story” or “Is that a Dude? Inside Lesbian Gender”

Kimberly Dark is a unique presence in the worlds of education, theatre, poetry, story-telling, research and academia. Her work combines all of these things as she tells stories about real women’s lives, including her own life. She has an MA in sociology from Cal State San Marcos where she now teaches qualitative research methods and sociological advocacy. Her stories help to illuminate the absurdities of gendered living, as well as pointing out our similarities and interconnectedness as we negotiate the social world. Please join me in welcoming Kimberly Dark, performing (insert performance name here).